

An aerial photograph of a complex highway interchange. A thick red line is drawn across the image, indicating the proposed location for a toll plaza. The line starts on the left side of the frame and follows the path of a road that splits into two lanes leading towards the interchange. The surrounding area includes various buildings, parking lots, and other infrastructure.